companied by a prayer and praise
service.

WINDING UP

THE BUSINESS OF THE LEGISLA-TIVE BOARDS THIS AF-TERNOON.

Council Finished and Aldermen in Session at Press Time This Afternoon.

The final meeting of the legislative boards were held this afternoon at the city hall.

The council met at 2 p. m. with all members present.

Mayor Yelzer reported the injunction filed by the East Tennessee Telephone company against the city to prevent interference with its operation.

The formal acceptance of Third street reconstruction by the board of works was ratified.

Accounts of all descriptions amounting to $24,641 were allowed.
Mayor Yelzer reported $17,637 in the sinking fund.

The regular allowance included
the schools' proportion of revenue amounting to over $9,000.

$200 was allowed Health Officer W. T. Graves for extra work during the yellow fever epidemic in the south.

$1,485 interest on railroad bonds
was allowed.

Bonds of License Inspector Lehnhard, City Physician Jass, City
Welcher Johnson, Marketmaster
Smedley and Sewer Inspector George Gardner were read and ratified. It was reported that Mr. Gardner would not accept, but it seems he has.

The action of the aldermen in referring the water rate matter to the joint light and water committee was ratified.

The board then adjourned.

The board of aldermen then convened and ratified the action of the council in everything up to accepting the bonds of city officials.

An ordinance to improve Jones
street and one exempting the box factory from taxation for five years
were given second passage.

Then the question of accepting bonds came up. Alderman Hell made the point that the minutes of the meeting held to elect the officers had never been approved, and there was no record that anyone had been elected.

No one could be found who had officially notified anyone that he had been elected.

A vote to accept the bonds resulted in 4 to 4. Alderman Kraus made the remarkable claim that as eight councilmen voted to accept the bond and four aldermen, 12 voted for it and 12 was a majority of the joint boards, hence the motion carried.
President Davis sustained the contention.

Alderman Starks appealed from the decision of the chair, and a wrangle arose over whether or not President Davis, the chair, and Alderman Starks, who made the appeal, could vote. It was still on at press time.

ago. Mr. Dalrymple was born in Cambridge, Ill., forty-two years ago.
Seven years ago he married Miss Ann
Good, of Baltimore, who survives him.

The London county council now

to breakdowns on the street railways.

THE HEADQUARTERS ARE ALL CLOSED

Senatorial Candidates Shift the Scene to Frankfort.

Judge Paynter, Senator Blackburn
and Col. Haldeman Are All Pleased.

EACH "IS GOING TO WIN SURE."

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 30.—While Percy Haley and others who have charge of Judge Paynter's campaign are free in expressing their confidence in his being victorious in the race, yet Judge Paynter absolutely refuses to give out any statement, saying that he did not care to say anything at this time.

The headquarters of Judge Payn-ter were closed at noon today, and Gen. Haley, Morgan Chinn, clerk of the court of appeals, Judge Henry B.
Illnes, and Harvey McCutchen and Judge Paynter left at 2 o'clock for Frankfort.

Senator Blackburn was at his headquarters until late. He said the situation never looked brighter to him,
and that he was perfectly satisfied with the manner in which things were shaping themselves. He will close his headquarters at noon today,
and leave for Frankfort on the afternoon train. He will immediately open headquarters at the Capitol Hotel.

The headquarters of Haldeman
was popular yesterday and last night and most all the representatives and senators who arrived yesterday and last night called.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler,
of Paducah, called during the day.

The Haldeman headquarters were closed at noon and Mr. Haldeman left for Frankfort.

land Presbyterian churches by yesterday afternoon agreed upon a basis for union of the two churches. This ends the work of the committee and each general committee will make a report to its respective Presbytery both of which meet next May for formal ratification.

The Fight Not Over.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 30.—
The advisory board of the loyalist council of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which is fighting the union of that church with what is generally known as the Northern Presbyterian church has decided to raise a fund of $40,000 for the prosecution of a campaign to prevent the union. The fund will be raised from the church membership on the budget plan.

A HEROINE

Actress Calmly Stamped Out Blaze
On Stage.

New York, Dec. 30.—Mme. Lillian Nordien won the enthusiastic plaudits of a large matinee audience at the Metropolitan opera house today when she quite coolly stamped out a blaze
on the stage near the footlights caused by fire dropping from a torch carried by a chorus woman in Götter-dämmerung. The incident occurred during the fire scene of the last act.

The stage carpeting caught fire.
Immediately there was uneasiness apparent in the audience and several persons started for the exits. Nordien, who was singing, walked over to the blaze and without interrupting her song stamped out the last spark of the fire. When the act ended the audience cheered, waved handkerchiefs and applauded for many minutes.

cured is unknown.

CLOSING YEAR WAS A PROSPEROUS ONE

Banks Declare Usual Dividends
Out of 6 Months' Earnings.

The Tax Bills of the Banking Institutions Show Hardly They Are Carrying.

NEWS OF COMMERCIAL WORLD

Bank clearings this week, $556,695
Same week last year, 528,353

The bank clearings this week show an increase over the same week last year. The increase is larger than the figures show as in the week last year there were six business days and in this week only five.

The directors of the banks met at different hours today to declare their semi-annual dividends. The City National declared a 6 per cent dividend.
The First National 7 per cent. The American German 4 per cent. The Citizens' Savings 4 per cent. The Paducah Banking Co 3 per cent. The Mechanics' and Farmers' 2 1-2 per cent. The Globe Bank and Trust Co.
passed its entire earnings to the undivided profits account, paying no dividend.

The gross earnings of the banks
the past six months were larger than ever before, but the net earnings were less. This is due to the tax burdens the banks are carrying, and unless something is done the "probabilities are that the banks will reduce their dividends." As one banker remarked: "The banks are doing more business today than at any time before in their history yet the shareholders will get less. The taxes have been raised and raised on us until they have become, indeed, a burden.
We shall have to have relief for the stockholders will have to be satisfied with less return on their stock.

There is a proposition on foot now to cut all the dividends 1 per cent next year unless we get some relief. This is not to be done by one bank but by
all. Take the way we are assessed, there is no justice in it. We are paying on every dollar of our capitalization, yet our next door neighbors in mercantile lines get off with a one-third assessment. Is there any fairness in that? If every one paid dollar for dollar we should have no complaint, as the rate would be reduced proportionately, but when we pay on everything we have and other people pay on one-third of what they have it is not equitable at all."

The same complaint is made at all the banks. Below is a list of the taxes paid by each of the banks, and it will be seen that some of them are paying over 6 per cent on their capitalization, verily a burden."

City National—Capital $200,000;
taxes $10,727, 5 per cent.
Amer. Ger.—Capital $230,000; taxes $9,290, 4 per cent.
Citizens—Capital $100,000; taxes
$1,200, 4.3 per cent.
First Nat.—Capital $100,000; taxes $6,500, 6.5 per cent.
Paducah Bank Co.—Capital $100,000;
taxes $3,821, 3.8 per cent.
Globe Bank—Capital $150,000;
taxes $4,300, 4.3 per cent.
Mechanics' and Farmers'—Capital $50,000; taxes $1,350, 2 1-2 per cent.

This is interesting information, and will appeal to owners of bank stocks.
If an individual was taxed at such rates there would be few capitalists
in the city.

The reports from all lines of business are that this year has been the best year in history and that the promises of the new year are all that could be desired. Every section of the country reflects the same healthy prosperity and the same reports are heard.

The national banks elect their directors the second Tuesday of next month.

There are no changes, as far as known, in the personnel of any prominent houses the first of the year.

The banks and postoffice will be closed New Year's day, but the retail establishments will be open as usual.

Mr. Harry Fisher has accepted a position in the office of the Meyer-Schmidt-Clark Grocery Co., and will assume his position Monday.

Cigar Company Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation were filed
this morning by the Bismarck Cigar company, which is capitalized at $2,500. The stock is divided into 25 shares of $100 each and is held as follows: F. G. Schmitt 9, Mrs. Daisy Barnett 5, E. E. Sanderson 4, R. L.

Moore 7. The company will manufacture smoking and chewing tobacco.

Tobacco Report.

Tobacco Inspector Ed R. Miller today issued two reports, the monthly report showing 191 hogsheads received during the past month, making a total of 6124 for the year. The total sales for the year are 5938 hogsheads against 9328 for last year.

The directors of the Meyer-Schmidt-
Clark Grocery company will meet Tuesday and elect officers for the year. Mr. Will C. Clark will be general manager.

A wealthy Chicago man, according to report, desires to purchase a large farm in McCracken county and establish a game preserve. He was here recently and has his eye on a place in the Florence Station neighborhood.
He intends, if he buys the property,
to bring bear, deer and other game
here to stock it.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

Following an unprecedentedly active holiday business in all parts of the country, distributive trade seems quiet by contrast. Building operations remain very active and manufactures are likewise facilitated by the interrupted passage of raw materials to consuming centers. In wholesale trade operations for spring accounts are larger than ordinary and in fact business is heavier than expected at this season. Staples generally maintain all their strength. Iron and steel lead industries in strength of the demand and prices, finished steel being particularly active for this season though pig iron sales are fair
at the west and open weather favors unprecedented productions.

Additional reports as to trade in the year now closing point to 1905 having been a record breaker alike in agricultural, speculative, financial and industrial circles. As a whole, however, the primary must be assigned to manufacturing industry, which shows the largest gains over all preceding years.

As to the future the outlook seems full of promise and the advent of 1906 is awaited with confidence unsurpassed in recent years.

with the corresponding period last year.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Despite the fact that early frosts cut short pital From Consumption.

ship carpenter, died today in Riverside hospital from consumption after a long illness. He had lived in Paducah about ten years and boarded street. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Josephphine Gregory, in Cincinnati, and she has been notified of his death. The Pool morgue to await instructions

Clerk Graham Undecided.

County Clerk Charles Graham retires from office Monday. He stated today that he had not decided yet what business he would go into. He said it would take him at least thirty days to wind up his business in the county court.

45 YEARS GIVEN CHICAGO MURDERER

Dr. Hart, Who Killed a Little Girl, Gets Heavy Sentence.

Student at Notre Dame Killed While Playing an Alleged Practical Joke.

THREE KILLED IN COLLISION.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Dr. Oliver Hart who two weeks ago pleaded guilty to the murder of Irene Klowkow, 10-years-old in his residence in Rogers Park last October, was sentenced to forty-five years in the penitentiary.
The child was left alone in the house with Hart, who, it was charged at the trial, drugged her with morphine and maltreated her. The morphine resulted in the child's death and when the neighbors broke into the house a few hours later they found Hart in a semi-conscious condition from the effects of some drug,
he having made an attempt to commit suicide. A number of physicians who testified at the trial agreed that he was not mentally responsible and that he had the mind of a boy of about 12 years of age.

joke held up Roqueola, mistaking him
for another person. When the students ordered Roqueola to hold up his hands he drew a revolver and fired.
The bullet struck Bagby near the heart and he died in five minutes.

Roqueola is crushed over the affair
although he supposed the attack on him to be genuine and acted on the defensive.

Theatrical Notes

TONIGHT AND NEXT WEEK AT THE KENTUCKY.

Tonight—Paul Gilmore as "Captain Debonnaire."

Monday Matinee and Night—"The Chaperons" Musical Comedy.

Thursday Night—"The Woman in the Case."

Saturday Matinee and Night—"The Messenger Boy."

That handsome and gifted young artist, Paul Gilmore, under the management of Jules Murry, will reappear at The Kentucky tonight, in his newest and most highly praised play, "Captain Debonnaire," a spectacular comedy romance in five acts, dramatized by William Farquhar Pynson and James MacArthur from Mr. Pynson's popular novel, "Debonnaire."

Paul Gilmore, at The Kentucky Theatre.

This play, while being the strongest in plot and most novel in action that Mr. Gilmore ever had, has been mounted with a greater degree of lavishness than were his former productions. The first and last scenes show the grand dining hall of the Chateau St. Louis at Quebec in 1675. Mr. Gilmore's company is the largest and strongest he ever had.

One of the most important attractions of the year is announced for appearance on New Year's day for matinee and night, at The Kentucky. This will be Isidore Witmark's comedy opera with a famous company of singing comedians in the popular travesty "The Chaperons." This well-known musical piece has been before the public for more than two years and has been given in nearly every city of importance in the east and middle west. The production is said to be an unusually pretentious one from scenic standpoint.

Annie W. Gardner (Bobby Bench) died of paralysis at Watertown, Wis., on December 2. He was born in Rome, N. Y., 50 years ago, and at the age of 15 began his stage career as a contortionist. Twenty-four years ago he organized Beach and Bower's minstrel company, which became famous in the Middle West. At the time of his death he was arranging to start on the road with another minstrel company.

"The Woman in the Case." Few, if any plays in recent years have created so much comment as Clyde Fitch's "The Woman in the Case" which for four months last season crowded the Herald Square theatre, New York to its capacity, and consequently there is likely to be an exciting scramble for seats next Thursday night when it is to be presented at the Kentucky theatre.

The play like most of Mr. Fitch's contribution is very much up-to-date. Briefly speaking it tells the story of a loving, faithful wife who will not believe in the accusations against her husband although they are supported by sufficient evidence to land him in prison. She not only believes him to be innocent but proves him so. He is the victim of a woman's revenge, a woman of just such a type as have supplied the yellow journals with the biggest headlines in recent criminal cases. The wife becomes for the time being a sort of female Sherlock Holmes, and goes for the woman in the case, from whom she ultimately wrings the truth and thus clears her husband. While the action of the play, which culminates in what has come to be called in New York the famous third act, is somewhat melodramatic, it is perfectly plausible. Indeed the great success the play has enjoyed is chiefly due to the fact that the story in its main features is almost identical with that of the most famous actual life dramas with which the courts of justice have had to deal with of late. The part of the wife is played by Miss Margaret Bennett, a role in which her well-known feminine charms have every opportunity of display.

Passengers over Pennsylvania Lines may, without a cent of additional fare, visit Washington and Baltimore if, when purchasing first-class tickets to Philadelphia or New York, they ask to have them routed via Washington.

Ten days' stop-over is allowed at Washington. Tourists are enabled to see the many points of interest in and around the national capital; view the magnificent Congressional Library which ranks among the world's grandest buildings; observe the making of money in the United States Treasury; admire the treasures in the Corcoran Art Gallery; go through the Botanical Garden, the Navy Yard, the Marine Barracks, the Arsenal, the Patent Office, the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum; meet foremost men in the affairs of the nation; see the National Capitol, the Supreme Court, Washington Monument, the State, War, Navy, Postoffice, Pension and other departments; view the new offices of the President provided in White House Alterations; and visit Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington.

Ten days' stop-over is also allowed at Baltimore, permitting a memorable visit to Druid Hill park, the Peabody Institute, John Hopkins University, the ship yards, oyster fisheries, cotton mills, the many rich libraries, and a few of the stately memorial shafts from which the "Monumental City" derives its name. Including the Washington Monument, a column of Maryland marble 180 feet high, Rinehart's colossal bronze of Chief Justice Taney, the Odd Fellows or Wilkey Monument, the Ridgely Memorial, and the monument to Edgar Allan Poe. There is also a view of the business district of Baltimore, risen from the ashes of the $150,000,000 fire.

The stop-over privileges on tickets to New York over Pennsylvania Lines also include ten days at Philadelphia, advantageous alike to business travelers and sight-seers. Visitors may view a wealth of historical features in this city: Independence Hall, where the Declaration of Independence was signed, the United States Mint, where gold and silver coins are made in full view; Fairmount Park, Drexel Institute, University of Pennsylvania, Girard College, Old Liberty Bell, the shipyards, League Island Navy Yard. It is only an hour's ride from Philadelphia to the health-giving air of old ocean at Atlantic City, the world's greatest seashore resort.

Martians Millions of Years Ahead of Us, Says Flammarion.

Paris, Dec. 30.—Camille Flammarion, the astronomer, talking on the subject of Mars, declared that the inhabitants of that planet are much more highly developed than the inhabitants of the earth, than whom it would be difficult to imagine a less intelligent man species, inasmuch as they do not know how to control themselves. The Martians are much older race than the inhabitants of the earth, representing what the latter will be several million years hence. Belief in their great intellectual superiority strengthens yearly with constantly increasing preciseness in astronomical observations. M. Flammarion supported his views by arguments derived from well known physical phenomena in Mars.

The Clyde shipbuilding returns for 1905 show a record both in the tonnage launched and in the orders booked. The tonnage launched for the 12 months exceeds 350,000 tons, against 417,000 last year, and 446,000 in the previous year. The previous highest output was in 1902, when 517,000 tons were launched. An encouraging circumstance is that whereas the orders on hand at the beginning of this year were 400,000 tons, the work on hand today is over 550,000 tons.

The Week In Society.

THE PASSING OF THE YEAR.

Listen—winter at her wheel!
Harsh her singings is and loud.
Look—the flying flakes reveal
The beginnings of a shroud.

Barren field and leafless bough,
Pallid feature, shrunken limb—
Soft! The year is dying now;
This white shroud shall cover him
—Julian Durand in Jan. Munsey.

1905-1906.

The social calendar for 1905 closes with these last pages well filled. In fact, the week has even more than is recorded, for some of the affairs have been elusively informal. Now with the year's volume so near the close that already the word "Farewell" is most in evidence, and we are taking curious peeps into the great beyond of 1906, let us give

"To the year that is gone, hail and farewell."
To the year which shall come, happy greeting."

The old year has been a pleasant friend withal, if we would stop to "count our blessings o'er," not boastfully but "knocking wood," as it were. May the New Year's God of Goodwill give us all more of pleasure than pain, and err, if at all, in loving-kindness for the world is needing it more and more.

The P. D. C. Club.

A new social club which has contributed its quota of pleasuring to the week's gaiety is the P. D. C. It is composed of eighteen of the very popular and charming "society lads." Miss Elizabeth Seebree is the president and the members are: Misses Nella Hatfield, Garnette Buckner, Jean Morris, Rosebud Hobson, Lily Hobson, Lucia Powell, Mildred Soule, Lucette Soule, Helen Powell, Elsie Bradshaw, Elizabeth Boswell, Elsie Hodge, Dorothy Langstaff, Mary Cave, Henriette Alcott, Helen Hills, Marjorie Lovins.

Theater Party for Miss Nahn.

An attractive feature of younger social life is Miss Anita Louise Keller's theater party of eighteen girls this afternoon at the Kentucky theater to witness Paul Gilmore as "Capt. Debonnaire." The party is given in honor of Miss Emaile Nahn, of Bowling Green, the cousin and guest of Miss Keller, and includes: Miss Emaile Nahn, of Bowling Green; Miss Carrie Trueheart, of Louisville; Miss Mae Blossom Beaumont, of Mayfield; Miss Mary Hall, of Mayfield; Misses Lucia Powell, Rosebud Hobson, Lily Hobson, Lillian Gregory, Henriette Alcott, Garnett Buckner, Jean Morris, Nella Hatfield, Dorothy Langstaff, Helen Hills, Elizabeth Seebree, Florence Loeb, Julia Dabney, Anita Keller.

Afternoon to Mrs. Trachart.

Mrs. Louis M. Rieke entertained a few friends informally on Wednesday afternoon at her home, on Jefferson street, in honor of Mrs. Chas. T. Trachart, of Louisville.

Matinee Musical Meeting.

The Matinee Musical club met on Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the Eagle club house, on Broadway. Mrs. Hubbard S. Wells was the leader for the afternoon and a very delightful von Flitz program was rendered.

Mr. Harry Gilbert skillfully interpreted several lyrics of the composer, who was his instructor when he studied at Berlin. Mrs. David Flournoy gave very charmingly the song cycle "Elfland," a beautiful love story woven of ten songs.

The club is proving most popular and the membership is large and constantly increasing. Messrs. E. J. Paxton, R. D. MacMillan, Emmet Bagby and Richard Scott have been elected honorary members.

College Boys' Supper.

Mr. Warren Sights, who is at home for the holidays from Chicago University, was the host at a delightful stag supper on Wednesday evening at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Sights, on Broadway.

The table was a symphony in red and white, carnations in these colors being effectively used in the decorations. Covers were laid for twelve and a twelve-course menu was served. Mr. Henry Cave was the toastmaster of the evening, and the toasts were decidedly witty and clever.

The guests, most of whom are college boys at home for the holidays, were: Messrs. Henry Cave, James Langstaff, Guy Martin, Vaughan Dabney, George Thompson, Zack Hayes, John Orme, Clay Kidd, Sam Hughes, Milton Wallerstein, Morris Rosenfield, of Rochester, N. Y.

Miss Seebree's Dance.

Miss Elizabeth Seebree gave a dance on Wednesday evening at the Brunswick, on Broadway, in honor of the P. D. C. club. It was a very delightful affair and about sixty-five guests were present. The house was effectively decorated in red and green, and the tables were arranged in the double parlors. From the center chandelier in one room was hung a large red bell and this was used to call the games. A red stocking filled with the tally cards was suspended from the other chandelier. The tables were decorated with pictures of Santa Claus. Miss Mildred Soule won the club prize and Miss Anita Louise Keller the guest prize. The booby prize fell to Miss Henriette Alcott. An attractive course-luncheon was served after the game.

Pretty Christmas Party.

The house was effectively decorated with holly, Christmas bells, and garlands of red paper festooned with the green. Pretty boxes in holly designs filled with candy were given as souvenirs to each guest.

Daily Thought.

"Let duty become touched with beauty, and justice be forgotten in love."

There is a move on foot to prohibit the killing of quail for three years. Of course it is a splendid idea, as it will enable our gentlemanly crack shots to hie themselves to the woods when the three years are up, and kill birds by the wagon load. But where does the honest farmer and the occasional hunter expect to come in? Our mighty Twentieth Century Nimrods have it so arranged now that quail cannot be sold or given away, and if anyone else is benefited by the game law it would be hard to explain how. If the quail are all being killed it is by those who go out and wantonly kill 50, a 100, or as many more as they can, in a day. The game laws should be made reasonable and then let alone.

This is the time when newspaper writers dissertate on the "Glorious New Year" and moralize on the good resolutions we make—or should make. While making resolutions is a very simple proceeding, keeping them intact is a horse of another color, and something no one has yet explained how to do. If a person keeps a good resolution only anonch, week, or even a day, however, he and the world are better for it, and it is hereby hoped that the crap of New Year resolutions will be unusually large this time.

Texas is a hot state. The supreme court has just decided that merchants or others cannot have an agreement to refuse to credit persons who do not pay their bills, as it will be an infringement of the anti-trust law. The people are still at liberty to do what they please to the merchants, however.

Louisville is improving. Orders have been issued by the mayor to stop all Oriental dances, and the decree is actually being enforced. Some day, perhaps, the powers that be will further relent and let the people hold a real election.

A majority of the colleges have agreed at a conference of representatives to amend the football rules. It will require a great deal of amending, however, to get rid of the obnoxious features of the game.

It is doubtless a fact that the approaching legislature will be able to transact little business, but this should be a source of pleasure and profit to the people of the state.

Senator Eeton should now announce for Haldeman for United States senator. He has been for Blackburn twice and Paynter once and shouldn't skip anybody.

be a feather in Col. Urey Woodson's cap. He can then say that one man whose candidacy he espoused was not defeated.

The city has another lawsuit on its hands. The only question is whether or not we should appeal it to a higher court.

Errors! James Hazen Hyde denies that he is going to France to live.

The United States senatorship is still anybody's persimmon.

THE SCHOOLS.

The Public Schools Will Reopen Tuesday—County Examination Today.

The public schools will re-open next Tuesday. The children have enjoyed a full week's vacation and will go to school ready for hard work.

The first school in the county to close for the season was the Arcadia school. The other schools will begin closing in two weeks and within two months all will be shut down until the next term.

Today County Superintendent Billington has been holding examinations for applicants for the normal department of the state college. Only three are taking the examination, and all are young ladies.

FATAL TOY PISTOL.

Willie Green Died From Lockjaw at Smithland.

Willie Green, a 12-year-old boy, of Smithland, is the latest victim of Christmas fireworks. Last night he died from lockjaw, which resulted from a shot in the hand on Christmas.

The boy had a toy pistol, in which he was shooting blank cartridges. One of the wads went into his hand and in a day or two lockjaw set in, resulting fatally last night. He was a very bright child, and was the step-son of Mr. Dave Adams, who has many acquaintances in Paducah.

Back in Kentucky.

Mr. S. T. Cosby, who has tried the western states for about four times, is like the chicken, will come home to roost once in a while. He is now here on a visit to his sister, Mrs. G. W. Saunders. This is his first visit here in eighteen months. On being asked if he would again locate in Kentucky he was very reticent but it was learned that he never purchased a round trip ticket when he left the west.—Mayfield Messenger.

BARGAINS IN MEDICINE.

A woman once wrote us that she was not going to buy Scott's Emulsion any more because it cost too much. Said she could get some other emulsion for less money. Penny wise and pound foolish. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it is worth more—costs more to make. We could make Scott's Emulsion cost less by using less oil. Could take less care in making it, too. If we did, however, Scott's Emulsion wouldn't be the standard preparation of cod liver oil as it is to-day.

SWINDLED OUT OF DIME.

Woman Travels Many Miles to Prosecute Alleged Gaffer.

Columbus, O., Dec. 29.—Because Mrs. E. R. Payne, a Minneapolis authoress, came all the way to Columbus to prosecute him after being defrauded out of ten cents. George W. Barnhart, a prominent Chillicothe, O., druggist, was fined $20 and costs in the federal court on the charge of fraudulent use of the mails.

When Barnhart learned that one of the witnesses against him had come all the way from Minnesota he realized how serious the complaint was regarded by the government, and he pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Payne was not only the chief witness, but the cause of the prosecution. She saw an advertisement offering for ten cents to give a certain remedy for exterminating red ants. She sent to Barnhart for it.

This was the remedy:

"Saturate sponge with sweet oil, let ants swarm on sponge and then throw sponge and ants into the fire."

Mrs. Payne has a sense of humor, but this did not touch it. She wrote to the postoffice inspectors about it, and they went after the druggist. She says she acted because of the principle of the thing and not because she was out ten cents.

Bad Man From Arizona is On His Way to Washington

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—There is a bad man with a gun on his way here from Arizona, and the money order clerks in the local postoffice are wondering if they cannot borrow President Roosevelt's secret service guard until after the bad man leaves.

The man is coming to collect a money order and with the letter of advice the postmaster at Phoenix, Maricopa county, Arizona, wrote this letter to the postmaster here:

"In reply to a note the payee of this order presented original for payment, and demanded enough more to back up the price of beer, threatening to back his mild request up with a 44 Gatling gun. Naturally we felt some aggrieved, as we had to descend from our natural dignity and duck under the counter, as our own little rainmakers were in a drawer, and we were somewhat pressed for time.

"Later in the day when we were better fixed for such peevish outbreaks, we were unable to locate Mr. Troublemaker. We found out later that Coffee Al. P. G. Gibson, and a few other of our progressive and influential citizens had bought him a ticket east. They were somewhat interested in his welfare, and thought the climate there might be better for his rugged constitution.

"He was getting too strong for a mild climate, particularly after getting outside ten or twelve of the rust proof, non-explosive, copper riveted essence of trouble dispensed over the bar at the Palace under the misleading name of bottled sunshine.

"As I was saying, the last I heard of Bill he was heading east, waybilled to your village, going easy at the usual rate of the Sunset Limited—15 miles a day—and is due to arrive in the near future if New Mexico isn't whipped off the map again.

"Kindly inform the postmaster general, the janitor, or whoever is boss of the roundup, of the present whereabouts of this money order. If he doesn't want it all at once, insist (mildly, of course, remembering that a gun in the hand is worth ten at home in your Sunday clothes) that he take at least half cash."

WORK OF YEARS

Was Destroyed at Mayfield—Worth Perhaps $1,000.

After working for many years to realize his highest ambition Mr. Tim Reeves was so unfortunate as to have his efforts wasted to destruction and looks on his labors as "all work for nothing," says the Mayfield Messenger.

Mr. Reeves a few years ago, after laboring since his early childhood days, perfected what he termed a "Celestial Harp," an instrument that was composed of most all instruments in existence. He could play all of them at one time and is perhaps the only one of its kind in the world. Mr. Reeves is a musical genius and he says that he valued his harp by the labor alone it took to make it at $1,000. He is greatly humiliated over it being so badly demolished, which he says was done by some one at his home while he was absent. A fine triangle was also damaged by the same party. Mr. Reeves said the harp had been finished four years and just now getting old enough to have the proper tone.

Mrs. Nation Coming.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 30.—It is probable that Mrs. Carrie Nation will pay Hopkinsville another visit in the near future. Her uncle, Squire Alex Campbell, of this city received a letter from her, stating that she expected to visit him, but so far she has not come, but Mr. Campbell says he would not be surprised to hear of her arrival on any train. If she does come her visit will be purely of a social nature to her relatives, although an attempt will be made to have her deliver an address at the Tabernacle.

Squire Campbell related the following anecdote which is very characteristic of Mrs. Nation: One of her pet hobbies just now is the building of a home for unfortunate at Shawnee, Okla. Recently she was arrested as a result of one of her raids, but she was released on a $15,000 bond, which she put up in cash herself. A few days later, however, she needed the money and surrendered herself to the judge, thus regaining the money, which she at once put to the uses she desired, and herself went to jail.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"By all means let it be a dinner," said Sheppard, suddenly springing up from his seat. "Mr. Greator, I am sure, would be loath to rob you of your pleasure, Captain Sercombe, and in his name I make bold to offer you the hospitality of the castle."

I started in amazement and opened my mouth to refuse, but was saved the trouble by the captain's answer. He was a good deal disconcerted.

"I fear," said he, "that the hospitality would be reluctant on Mr. Greator's part."

"Not at all," said I graciously. "A distinguished soldier like Captain Sercombe is always welcome to my house."

He hesitated, and then, coloring slightly, "I am not alone," said he.

Sheppard shot me a glance of triumph, as who would say, "I thought we should corner him."

"No doubt Mr. Greator would gladly entertain the other gentleman," he suggested.

The captain looked at him, and a grin spread slowly over his features.

By his side stood Hood.

"No," he said; "but, with Mr. Greator's permission, the other gentleman shall entertain us."

"I fancy," he continued, smiling, "that Hood is not a stranger to the castle ways, and he makes a good waiter."

The idea tickled me. "Let us have Hood by all means," I said. "I had an excellent character for him from Mr. Kesteven."

"I will bring Hood," said the captain gravely and, taking up his hat, made to go.

The dinner was set for 7 o'clock, and I fancy that all three looked forward to it with considerable expectation. Sercombe arrived punctual to the hour, and a little later I entered the morning room to meet him. He sat in a chair, lounging very cozily, a light overcoat covering his evening dress, and by his side stood Hood, also in the orthodox costume and looking, as I could not help noticing, uncommonly spruce and servant-like.

"I am here, Mr. Greator, to the moment," said Sercombe in his leisurely voice, "and I go full that I have brought you an invaluable ally. With your permission, Hood will now retire to the kitchen."

The luncheoner insensibly straightened himself, standing to attention like a graven image, and I signed my assent.

"This is entirely your affair, Captain Sercombe," said I, "and you may do what you like with your own property." I turned to Hood. "You will find Mrs. Main in the servants' hall," I said.

With his gliding, serpentine tread, Hood made a motion of respect and vanished. Sercombe stared after him, meditating, and gnawed his mustache with a frown, which seemed to me to indicate a certain touch of perplexity. But he brightened at once and talked very freely and in his old manner till dinner was served. The interior significance of our dinner party would not have been visible to a stranger. For the main part, that preliminary skirmish was occupied by conversation the most distant from the subject we all had at heart. It was Sercombe himself who set the example of reserve, and we followed meekly enough. When I say reserve I am thinking only of one particular point, for heaven knows that his talk was sufficiently frank upon other topics. As I had occasion to take note now and subsequently, the man was by nature framed for a good talker, and, although he had every prejudice against him, and started, so to speak, with a great misapprehension, he soon wore down the feelings with which we embarked upon the entertainment. And it was not until we had broached a sort of good fellowship and the evening was fast spent that anything happened to mar our growing harmony.

It fell out thus: Sercombe himself had just concluded an amusing narrative of his experiences among the brigands of Calabria, and Sheppard resumed the conversation with an adventure of his own. The evening had fallen dark and cloudy, and amid the starlike candles that illumined the room the dark figure of Hood moved noiselessly and constantly. I had heard this story of Sheppard's, which indeed, was not very exciting, and my mind, swaying from its polite duty, rested unconsciously upon the new luncheon. As I watched him I saw the two men exchange glances—an interrogating look upon Sercombe's part, a baffling and inscrutable look from Hood. There followed an instant's pause, and then the man approached the minister with the pretext of a dish. Sercombe spoke low and across his shoulder, nervously exploring the contents of the dish with a spoon. Hood said nothing and, raising his eyes, softly fixed them upon me at the other end of the table. For a moment we regarded each other luminously, and then his glance fell politely away. Sercombe still whispered and, I thought, with a growing anxiety. It was time for me to interfere.

"Captain Sercombe," I cried sharply, breaking upon the talk of Sheppard's yarn, "these communications are not included in the compendium."

The captain started, and his face reddened deeper, but he was always a cool hand.

"I must ask you to remember, Mr. Greator," said he suavely, "that I am your guest."

"That is true," said Sheppard, nodding his head.

Sercombe looked at me with someasperity.

"I think, sir," said he, "that in the circumstances you will see that you have overstepped the privileges of gentlemen."

"The world is hardly in the case. I think we are agreed that it is as thieves we meet," interjected Sheppard smoothly.

"You are right, Captain Sercombe," I answered, being in my turn in command of myself, "and I offer you my apology for the rudeness, but I am at least the master of my own servants, and Hood shall keep his distance and not hang about annoying my guests."

With which I ordered him forthwith to the kitchen, a command which he hastened to obey almost by anticipation.

I must say that this unpleasant episode at once changed the atmosphere of the room. On the whole, I did not regret this, as I conceived that we had perhaps reached the proper term of our familiarity with Sercombe. It was strange to see the instant revolution in our mutual attitudes. Whether Sercombe himself had been as easy as he had previously seemed, or whether he had acted a part for my benefit, I cannot say, but it is certain that now he was charged with a dignity. Now and again his eyes, put on and bloodshot, flickered nervously on Hood, where the man stood in his corner, a memorial of black sobriety, and his demeanor was carefully under restraint. The situation became a little disagreeable, and I thought the time had arrived to end it.

"Captain Sercombe," I said, quite formally, "I fancy our dinner, such as it is, is over, and if you will take no more wine perhaps we had better get to business."

"Certainly, sir," said the captain cheerfully and draining his glass. "I am at your service."

I looked at Hood. "It is time now," said I, "that we were alone." And I waited to see the man move.

A quick exchange of glances took place between them, and then the luncheoner turned his back on us and busied himself with the plates upon the sideboard.

Sercombe colored angrily and was visibly disconcerted. "I beg your pardon, sir," said he, with a slight stammer, "but I have already had the honor of informing you that I am not alone in this matter."

"Really," said Sheppard gently, "I do not think we can invite our servants to discuss this matter with us."

Sercombe hid his lip, and after a glance at Hood, who still kept his attitude, "I understand your feeling, gentlemen," he replied, "and, in fact, I sympathize with it. But—"

He hesitated, and I began to perceive for the first time how far he was involved with the other and to what extent he was under his control. It was evident that he was chagrined by his position.

"Leave the room, Hood," said I, not that I had any certain intention that he should quit us, but rather out of curiosity as to what would ensue. The issue surprised me. Hood turned obediently on his heel and made for the door. As it closed upon him Sercombe turned to us and broke out with embarrassment:

COAL SHIPMENTS

500,000 Bushels Are Now On Their Way South.

Louisville, Dec. 30.—The first of the Pittsburg coal fleets coming on the recent rise are in. The remainder will be sent to Memphis, Cairo and other southern points at once. Most of the barges and boats were put through the canal today and made up into a tow, which the J. B. Finley will come south with.

There are still over a million bushels of coal to come in that were shipped from Pittsburg sometime ago. Part of this consignment will arrive today and the remainder later in the week.

KING DIDN'T KNOW WHO FIRED THE SHOT

Picked Out the Wrong Man Entirely as the One.

Warrant Against John Smedley for Shooting Street Car Conductor Promptly Dismissed.

OTHER POLICE COURT CASES

The trial of John Smedley in police court this morning, for the alleged shooting of Conductor King, of the Traction company, in the leg, demonstrated the uncertainty and fallibility of testimony. King picked out and identified as the man who shot him, Henry Robinson, a member of the fire department who happened to be in the court room. His morning sitting near Attorney J. Wheeler Campbell, attorney for Mr. Smedley, Fireman Robinson was not near the scene of the trouble, and King's action showed he didn't know who shot him, so the warrant against Mr. Smedley was promptly dismissed.

King, it will be remembered, had an altercation with two unknown passengers about two weeks ago over one's having placed his fare in the box instead of waiting for the conductor.

As the men got off the car near Third and Tennessee streets, the argument was renewed, and the conductor began kicking at one of them as he started back towards the rear of the car. The man drew a pistol and shot King in the leg.

John Smedley, a bricklayer, was arrested as the one who did the shooting, but both he and Mr. Charles Smedley, who was with him, declared that they knew nothing about the shooting. They had been on the car, but left it at Norton street, while the trouble happened further on, at Tennessee.

King was able to attend court today and when he went on the stand instead of identifying Mr. Smedley as the man who shot him he picked out Henry Robinson, who was not near the place. Right there the prosecution collapsed, the warrant being dismissed without the defendant being heard. Other witnesses who were on the car testified that they did not know the man who did the shooting.

Other cases in police court today were:

George Hall and Charles Murphy, drunk, $1 and costs; J. Jacobs and D. Prentice, immorality, $20 and costs; Prentice Campbell, malicious cutting and Fred Cooper, malicious cutting, was each granted a continuance until Tuesday. Campbell was caught in Indianapolis, Ind., and Cooper in Waverly, Tenn., and brought back.

The disorderly conduct warrant against Minnie Tice, wife of the I. C. Hagman killed in the fight with officers Christmas, was dismissed.

Premier Efforts in Value Giving Begins at This Store

SATURDAY, DEC. 30, 1905, 9 a. m.

Prices the Lowest Ever Known. Every Purchase Means a Saving of From 50 Cents to 75 Cents on the Dollar

It will emphatically be the largest and greatest bargain opportunity sale ever conducted in Paducah. Values never before thought of will be handed out to you, as the stock MUST POSITIVELY be sold out regardless of its cost. We bought it at a ridiculously low price and will give you the benefit of our bargain. We did not buy the stock to keep it, but to close it out and that QUICKLY. You know the stock Schwab had and it needs no commendation from us. We know it was worth much more than we dreamed of, and you will profit by it if you are quick to seize the opportunity, for the mere announcement of the prices below will make things move lively from the time the doors are thrown open Saturday morning.

We cannot emphasize too much what this sale means to you. It will overshadow anything of a like nature ever held here, and should interest every man and woman in town, and they should seize the chance to supply their wants in the clothing and furnishing line for months to come, as an opportunity like this is seldom had.

We shall have a sufficient number of good salespeople to wait on you and see that you get just what you want, and we especially suggest that you are indeed missing something real good if you fail to come down and take advantage of the possibilities we offer you to make your money go a long way. Bad weather has just started. You know the next three months are the worst of our winters, and winter clothes will be in demand; therefore you can appreciate what this sale means. Clothing, Underwear, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Shirts, Trunks and Suit Cases will be sold at nearly give-away prices.

This stock must be closed out quickly, and in order to do so goods will be slaughtered. Remember every purchase means a saving of from 50 cents to 75 cents on the dollar.

New Model Revolver—United States Army.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The Ordnance bureau of the war department has in contemplation a competitive contest for new models of a revolver for the use of the United States army. What is desired by the department is a weapon possessed of greater stopping power than the revolver now in use in the army. The details of the trials have not as yet been arranged. It is expected that weapons of large calibre and possibly of different type from those now in use will be tested.
